

Bank On Seattle-King County is an initiative of the Financial Empowerment Network to connect people without checking and savings accounts to affordable mainstream financial services, including checking, savings, credit, and financial education opportunities. We assist in providing people with alternatives to paying more than they need to for financial services, to help them on a pathway to economic stability and success.

Together in partnership with banks, credit unions, government, and community organizations, local Bank On's in Washington¹ work together to bring affordable mainstream financial services to our communities.

With the support of the national Cities for Financial Empowerment Fund, there are dozens of local Bank On coalitions across the country. Certified accounts² already are available in more than 22,000 branches across the entire country. Bank On coalition partners work with others to secure safe banking access, working at the national, regional, and local level to partner with financial institutions, government programs, banking regulators, consumer advocates, and others to increase access to safe, low-cost transactions products
